EIR or Embossed- In-Register means the embossed texture is synchronised or precisely aligned with the visual pattern printed on the flooring.

EIR surface creates a realistic, true-to-life look and feel. It adds depth and texture to the surface, making it appear as though it has the imperfections and tactile qualities of the real material it is emulating.

DR-131E

DR-132E

A photograph of a wood-look laminate flooring sample, model DR-132E. This plank has a slightly darker, more muted taupe or light brown color compared to the first sample. The wood grain pattern is more pronounced and varied, with more distinct knots and a slightly more textured appearance. It is also laid on a dark reddish-brown surface, with its long edge oriented vertically.
